

INDICA ETHICOS: ARCHITECTURAL EXPANSION

Register: Behavioral & Rhetorical Taxonomy

मध्वावृति (Madhvāvṛti)

Technical Concept: "Honey Hedging"

1. Etymological Engineering

Madhvāvṛti is a compound formation utilizing Yan-Sandhi to fuse a sensory descriptor with a functional cloak.

Component	Morphology	Concept Mapping
Madhu (मधु)	Noun (Substance)	The 'Honey'—The sweet, safe, or standard disclaimer.
Āvṛti (आवृति)	Noun (Action)	The 'Cloak'—The screening or shielding behavior.
Sandhi Joining	मध् + आवृति	Resulting in Madhvāvṛti (The Honeyed Screening).

2. Definition & Social Mechanics

Formal Definition: The tactical application of performative safety disclaimers (the 'Honey') to bypass institutional or algorithmic filtration, while simultaneously conveying an underlying, often contradictory, personal belief (the 'Hedging').

Mechanism: It acts as a cognitive buffer. The 'Honey' satisfies the auditor/critic, while the content satisfies the creator's true intent. In the context of commentary culture, it is the 'theatrical' layer of ethics.

3. Use Case: Digital Media

Example: A creator states 'I do not promote paranormal entities' (Madhvāvṛti) specifically to avoid demonetization, before spending the remainder of the session validating paranormal existence. The critic who identifies this is performing a 'Cloak-Piercing' audit.

Project: Indica Ethicos / Volume II expansion

Author: The Architect (deathbunk-tech)

Date: May 2026